REPORT OF THE PRESIDENT 1985-86

REPORT OF THE PRESIDENT

Dear Alumni, Friends and Parents,

Last year in the President's Report, I indicated the state of the College was excellent—that we were at a stage of genuine momentum! I want to detail now how that momentum has accelerated over the past twelve months and why we are strong and getting stronger in every facet of our educational life.

Hugh O'Brian, who visited the College in May to speak at Commencement, lauded LVC's new focus on leadership, which includes a new course being taught for the first time this fall.

STRONG & GROWING STRONGER

Our Financial Position: Strong and Growing Sronger

Last year's operating budget showed a significant net income. Our fund balance had increased by a million and a half dollars over the previous year and our Endowment Funds stood at an all time high of $6.3 million (market value). This year our operations budget again is balanced. We have retired the remaining $80,000 of our accumulated short term deficit. Our fund balances increased by $1,800,000 and our Endowment Funds now stand at over $9,000,00 (market value). In addition, the debt on the $5,000,000 Garber Science Center was retired in February—two years ahead of schedule. The detailed income and expenditure items for 1985-86 are illustrated on the accompanying Sources and Distribution of Income Chart.

Our Academic Programs: Strong and Growing Stronger

The devotion to personalized teaching by our distinguished faculty has produced both winners of prestigious fellowships and the lowest attrition rate we have experienced in decades. Concomitantly, an unprecedented number of top ranking National Merit Scholarship winners are being attracted to our campus.

In an effort to provide the best possible instructional equipment and to support the scholarship of faculty members, we have added a state-of-the art VAX central computer and increased the number of microcomputers from five to 64. A new PDP 11/84 computer has been purchased for administrative use, freeing the VAX central computer for purely academic work. Computers are now being used in every department of the College, from science laboratories to composition classes.

In May, another major step forward was taken in academic programs when the Board of Trustees approved the carefully crafted faculty plan for a new Leadership Studies Program. This program, along with corresponding efforts at the high school, middle management, and top executive levels, reinforces our position as "The Leadership College." Although some 468 other colleges and universities are now engaged in developing some form of leadership studies program, we remain alone in terms of attacking this urgent educational need on a total community scale.

Complementing all of these exciting new developments is the addition to our staff of Dr. William J. McGill, our new Vice President/Dean of the Faculty. Dr. McGill brings to his academic leadership of the College an outstanding record as teacher/scholar, administrator, government official, actor, and religious leader.

Strong and growing stronger certainly characterizes what has been happening on the academic scene at Lebanon Valley College.

Student Life: Strong and Growing Stronger

In the ideal educational environment, classroom and laboratory learning are supplemented by additional cultural, spiritual, and intellectual experiences. At Lebanon Valley College, those opportunities are increasing in number and quality. This year, for example, students had the opportunity to hear Martin Marty, the nation's leading church historian, George Miller, Secretary General of the U.S. Olympic Committee, Hugh O'Brian, television star and humanitarian, and Cliff Jones, prominent business leader and president of the Pennsylvania Chamber of Commerce. They also heard a variety of high quality musical offerings presented by Lebanon Valley College's own vocal and instrumental groups and by other highly acclaimed professional artists brought to campus through the Master's Series. In addition, two broadway and television actors, Kathleen Gaffney and James Maxwell, spent two weeks at the College presenting a variety of "informances" and advising students on various theatrical productions.

The always popular Thanksgiving festival, Christmas at the Valley, and Spring Arts Festival gave students the opportunity to both enjoy and participate in worthwhile cultural events involving the entire College community.

Participation in and enjoyment of athletics, another dimension of college culture, also increased during the past year. Expanded intramural and general fitness programs helped sharp minds remain alert in sound bodies. Intercollegiate competition produced All-American honors for stellar wrestlers Rich Kichman and Gary Reesor and basketball star Pat Zlogar, while highly competitive teams in women's basketball, softball and men's baseball signalled the beginning of a rejuvenation of the overall intercollegiate sports program at the College. The recruitment of an outstanding group of scholar/athletes for the fall class promises an exciting future for Lebanon Valley College athletics.

Housing facilities were upgraded this year through the air-conditioning of a second dormitory and through additional recarpeting and repainting, all part of a never-ending effort to offer our students the best possible living environment during their college years.

In terms of quality of life and student involvement, we are indeed strong and growing stronger.

Commitment to Community: Strong and Growing Stronger

I have suggested that one meaning of the initials LVC is *L*eadership, *V*alues, and *C*ommunity—leadership development based on strong Judeo-Christian values building a spirit of community. Our historic commitment to the larger community is broadening with each passing year. In 1985-86, for example, it meant the continuation of Kreiderheim Conversations, periodic meetings of broadly representative community leaders exploring ways of improving the quality of life in the Lebanon Valley. It meant the initiation of the CEO Roundtables through which top executives regularly assemble to share information and to assess and improve their own leadership style and objectives. It meant involvement in two Ben Franklin Partnership Projects (a state-supported, industry/education cooperative effort). In one, over 170 business and professional men and women learned to use micro-computers, and in the other the College's potential involvement in creating new small businesses in the area was studied.

It has meant the sharing between College and community of two outstanding visiting young actors (courtesy of an ALCOA Foundation grant) and the involvement of student groups and staff members in raising substantial funds for a myriad of worthwhile causes ranging from Heart and Cancer Funds to Cerebral Palsy, The Sunshine Foundation, and the United Way. It has meant making available to community groups playing fields and other facilities for the enhancement of the quality of life for collegians and community members alike. It has involved studies to determine what education programs were most needed in the community and then tailoring coursework, and certificate and degree programs to respond to those needs. New degree programs for health care professionals and for military personnel resulted from such studies.

The commitment to "community" by Lebanon Valley College is strong and growing stronger.

Tribute to Mrs. Cecil Lutz

The entire College community was recently shocked to hear of the death of our friend and colleague, Mrs. Cecil Lutz, on July 19, 1986. For those who had the privilege of knowing this beautiful and brilliant leader, it is a deep personal loss. For the College, it is the loss of a dedicated friend and generous supporter. We will miss her wit and wisdom, her charm, and her sweet gentility.

Cecil Lutz and her husband Parke, both of whom served as members of our Board of Trustees, provided funds for Lutz Hall, the beautiful performing arts auditorium in Blair Music Center. Their generosity continues in the form of a major bequest, which will be of immense help as we initiate our new capital campaign.

As we contemplate the lives of service lived by Parke and Cecil Lutz, we call to remembrance the contributions of "all the saints" who have made Lebanon Valley College what it has become through the years. Let us honor their memory by meeting the challenge to keep Lebanon Valley College strong and growing stronger with each passing year.

Church Relations: Strong and Growing Stronger

Throughout this past year the Chaplain and I have met with conference Bishops and District Superintendents to determine ways in which the College can be of more direct support to the United Methodist Church. Projects in four areas, some initiated this year, are worthy of further development: (1) special leadership seminars for church leaders, both clergy and laity, (extracted from our popular and successful five-day Leadership Development Program); (2) the offering of technically-oriented workshops in such fields as the use of microcomputers for church publications and correspondence; (3) special faculty-presented seminars to aid members of the clergy in their preaching, in youth work, or in counseling; (4) pilot projects with selected churches utilizing LVC in such areas as fund raising techniques.

Conversely, church leaders have discussed with us and are implementing suggestions to broaden student recruitment efforts and to strengthen scholarship support for United Methodist students in church-related colleges.

Church relations at Lebanon Valley College extend well beyond the United Methodist Church. Facilities and programs are shared with students and church leaders of all denominations. Worshippers of the Roman Catholic faith, for example, hold regular services in our chapel for the substantial number of Roman Catholics in our student body. This past year a course on Judaism was offered under the auspices and with the support of the Jewish Chautauqua Society.

The dialogue between religious leaders of many faiths and College faculty and staff is becoming more frequent and more productive.

It is a dialogue which will enable a strong relationship to grow stronger in the years ahead.

Commitment to Institutional Advancement: Strong and Growing Stronger

To continue our momentum, Lebanon Valley College must attend to long-range needs. That is the province of our recently-strengthened office of institutional advancement.

Preston H. Hadley III, our new Vice President for Institutional Advancement, has been assigned overall direction of the office. The following are members of his staff:

- Karen McHenry Gluntz, Executive Director of Development, responsible for planned giving, gifts-in-kind, prospect cultivation, and business and professional relations
- Kathleen Yorty Thach, Director of the Annual Fund
- Marilyn A. Weister, Director of Communications
- Frank Tavani, Director of Alumni Services and Parents Programs.

STRONG & GROWING STRONGER

During the last few months a long time friend of the College, Ralph Wolfe, Senior Vice President of Marts & Lundy, fund raising counsel, has assisted the Office of Institutional Advancement staff in reorganizing and planning for the upcoming campaign. Richard Jolly, Marts & Lundy resident manager for the capital campaign, is already "on board" and hard at work on this effort.

The splendid accomplishments of the 1985-86 Annual Giving Campaign under the dedicated leadership of E. Peter Strickler, his volunteer committee and the institutional advancement staff are detailed on an accompanying chart and explained in the report of Karen McHenry Gluntz, Executive Director of Development. Suffice it to say here that the annual giving campaign (restricted and unrestricted) contributed $1,144,004 to this year's operational budget. As you know, all unrestricted giving is devoted to supporting worthy students through our institutional student aid program.

The substantial accomplishments of the 1985-86 Annual Giving Campaign plus the enhancement of the Institutional Advancement staff are tangible evidence that the College's commitment to Institutional Advancement is strong and growing stronger.

Student Enrollment: Strong and Growing Stronger

In light of the momentum described above it is no wonder that new matriculants for the '86-'87 academic year are up 16 percent over last year. This is the result of the earnest efforts of everyone in the college community: the hard working and effective admissions staff; a dedicated faculty and administration; supportive alumni and friends; current students who spread the good word; and church leaders. It is a response also, I believe, to the exciting program developments taking place at the College.

The enrollment statistics for the 1985-86 school year are proof positive that our total institutional image is strong and growing stronger.

Dr. Robert C. Riley to Retire as Vice President/Controller

Lebanon Valley College has been most fortunate to have Dr. Robert C. Riley as a valued member of its staff for the past 35 years. This brilliant and tireless colleague will be sorely missed—both as a dedicated and highly effective professional leader and as a friend. None of the "Annual Reports" which have been issued by three presidents during those decades of Dr. Riley's Controllership could have been as positive and as solid had it not been for his keen, analytical mind and his steady hand on the fiscal affairs of the College.

Bob Riley, friend and colleague, we salute you in this 1985-86 President's Report for your steadfast devotion to the College and for all you have done and are doing to make this institution strong and growing stronger in her Fiscal Affairs.

During his tenure at LVC, Dr. Riley has been strategically involved in "building" the campus. He played a major role in the planning, financing and building of eight major College buildings, and supervised the acquisition of fourteen others. His expertise was recently called upon again when the College expanded the campus to 200 acres with the purchase of a neighboring farm.

To Lebanon Valley College Alumni and Friends,

It is with great personal pleasure that I share with you the good news. Our 1985-1986 Annual Fund goal of $1,000,000 has been met and exceeded!

No one likes to be wrong, and I certainly have not been wrong about you. Once again you have proven me right when I say LVC alumni and friends are among the most loyal in the United States.

On behalf of the College and its students, who benefit directly from your gifts, I extend to each of you my sincerest thanks on this noteworthy achievement.

Sincerely yours,

E. Peter Strickler

The Phonathon—Expect a call. . . Make a pledge.

Miss Barbara Sbraccia of Folsom, Pennsylvania, served as phonathon coordinator for the '85-'86 Annual Fund. A senior majoring in management, Barb set the stage for the phonathon by placing the first call and "showing them how it's done."

Top callers during the four-week phonathon were Karen Karapandza (left) and Janice Roach (right). Karen, a senior majoring in mathematical sciences, received the award for raising the highest dollar amount in pledges; Janice, a senior majoring in actuarial science, received the award for the greatest number of increased pledges.

Della Sitaras (foreground), a junior majoring in social service, and Karen Jones (background), a junior majoring in liberal arts, were among the more than 100 student callers who made the '85-'86 phonathon a success. Alumni, friends and parents pledged approximately $50,000 for scholarships and financial aid for deserving LVC students.

During the month of October 1986, students like Marie Shott, a sophomore majoring in Spanish, will again take to the phones in the '86-'87 Annual Fund Phonathon. This year the goal is $67,000.

Report of the Executive Director of Development

Dear Alumni, Friends and Parents,

Once again, friends and alumni of Lebanon Valley have honored themselves through generous giving to the College. With $567,312 in unrestricted and $576,692 in restricted gifts, the '85-'86 Annual Fund Campaign total stands at $1,144,004—$144,004 over the goal.

Much credit for the campaign's success must go to the campaign chairman, E. Peter Strickler '47, who worked tirelessly for several months before a serious operation put him on the side lines. He has recovered beautifully, and we are all thankful for this.

Everyone at Lebanon Valley College joins me in thanking our 1985-86 Annual Fund Committee: Mr. Edwin H. Arnold, Mr. Curvin N. Dellinger '38, Mrs. Elaine G. Hackman '52, Mrs. Rhea P. Reese, Mr. Thomas C. Reinhart '58, Mr. Morton Spector, Mr. Harlan R. Wengert and Mr. E. D. Williams, Jr.
